MEN" IS A SUCCESSFUL COMEDY

The comedy, "Two Married Men," which J. G. and Glenn Harper, Inc., are offering for the amusement of the theater-goers this season, is not a noisy farce, not yet a classic, but a novelty, and novelties are always in demand. Although the plot is good and well emphasized, "Two Married Men" is a comedy of incidents, witty lines and amusing situations, which make for the popularity of the play.

The American play-goers want comedy. They have come to know that laughter and jollity are the best antidotes for a troubled heart or a wearied brain and that the strongest antidote for the many evils of society is laughter and merriment. Like the sunshine and the breezes, the comedy drama, "Two Married Men," invigorates while it delights.

The dialogue is bright, witty and convincing; the cast well chosen to interpret the different characters; the wardrobe elegant; the stage settings special and appropriate.

Seats are now on sale at the Miners' Drug Store for this production, which takes place at Nevada theater Saturday night.

MORE IMPORTANT
EVIDENCE SHOWS UP IN DYNAMITE CASE

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 12.—The most important evidence yet obtained by the government in investigation of the dynamite conspiracy is believed to have been presented to the grand jury. Points along the line on which the inquiry was directed are said to implicate men other than those already indicted or arrested or convicted, and is said to have raised these questions: "Who paid Orville McManigal the $160 in Chicago after he had blown up a portion of the railroad bridge at Clinton, Iowa, February 16, 1908?"

"Who met him in Boston and showed him where to put dynamite that partly destroyed an opera house there March 27, 1909?"

"Who went with him from Boston to Springfield, Mass., where McManigal blew up part of the municipal building?"

"Who met him in New York in September, 1909?"

"Who met him in Jersey City on July 9, 1910?"

"Who met him in Peoria, Ill.?"

In each of these cities dynamite outrages occurred. McManigal's father and McManigal himself was before the jury yesterday. They said stores of explosives were kept in the father's shed at Tiffin, Ohio, ready for use whenever a job was to be done.

Government officials declared that nearly all of the 100 jobs done by McManigal and J. B. McNamara were done with the assistance of others, who are not yet arrested or indicted. McManigal, in his confession, stated he did receive this assistance and named two men. The government is now seeking corroborative evidence.

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—Four local labor leaders, whose names are withheld, have gone to Indianapolis in response to summons. They are wanted to give evidence in connection with the dynamiting of the Boston opera house in March, 1909, when a small section of the front of the building was blown away.

POPULARITY OF
THE BUTLER SHOW
ON THE INCREASE*FINE PROGRAM IS ON AGAIN
FOR TONIGHT AT THE BUTLER SHOW.

A program of merit will be produced at this popular playhouse this night. The pictures are entitled "What Will Be, Will Be." This is a fine story, centered on the two words "will be," with a beautiful love story running in it. There is also much comedy in this picture. "Tod in Colorado," Selig; "Making Cheddar Cheese," Eclipse, and a great comedy hit, "Jimmie's Midnight Flight," is one that will make you sit up and take notice and will live in your memory forever.

Don't forget, tomorrow, "The Kiddies' Christmas," and carry the children out to see it, for it will be the happiest hour for them for the New Year, and will be equally as interesting for the older ones. The greatest juvenile picture ever produced. The most fascinating scenes ever shown in motion pictures.

"Baby Josephine" will be heard in new songs and will do the sword dance, made famous by Maud Allen.
